

Foolish people follow blindly

One day a Rabbit was relaxing under a tree. He thought...

What will happen
if the earth breaks into two parts ?

Just at that time, a fruit fell from the tree over rabbit's head.

My thought has come true! The earth is really breakin down!
To save my life, I must run
to a safer place.

While he was frantically running, another rabbit saw him...

What happened, why are you running?

Don't ask any question, just run for your life!

Very soon, a horde of frightened rabbits were running. A dear noticed them running...

Leaving from the rabbits that the earth was going to break, the deer also joined the rabbits.

Similarly all other animals also joined...

Lion came by...

What is the matter? Why are they running?

Don't you know?
The earth is breaking.

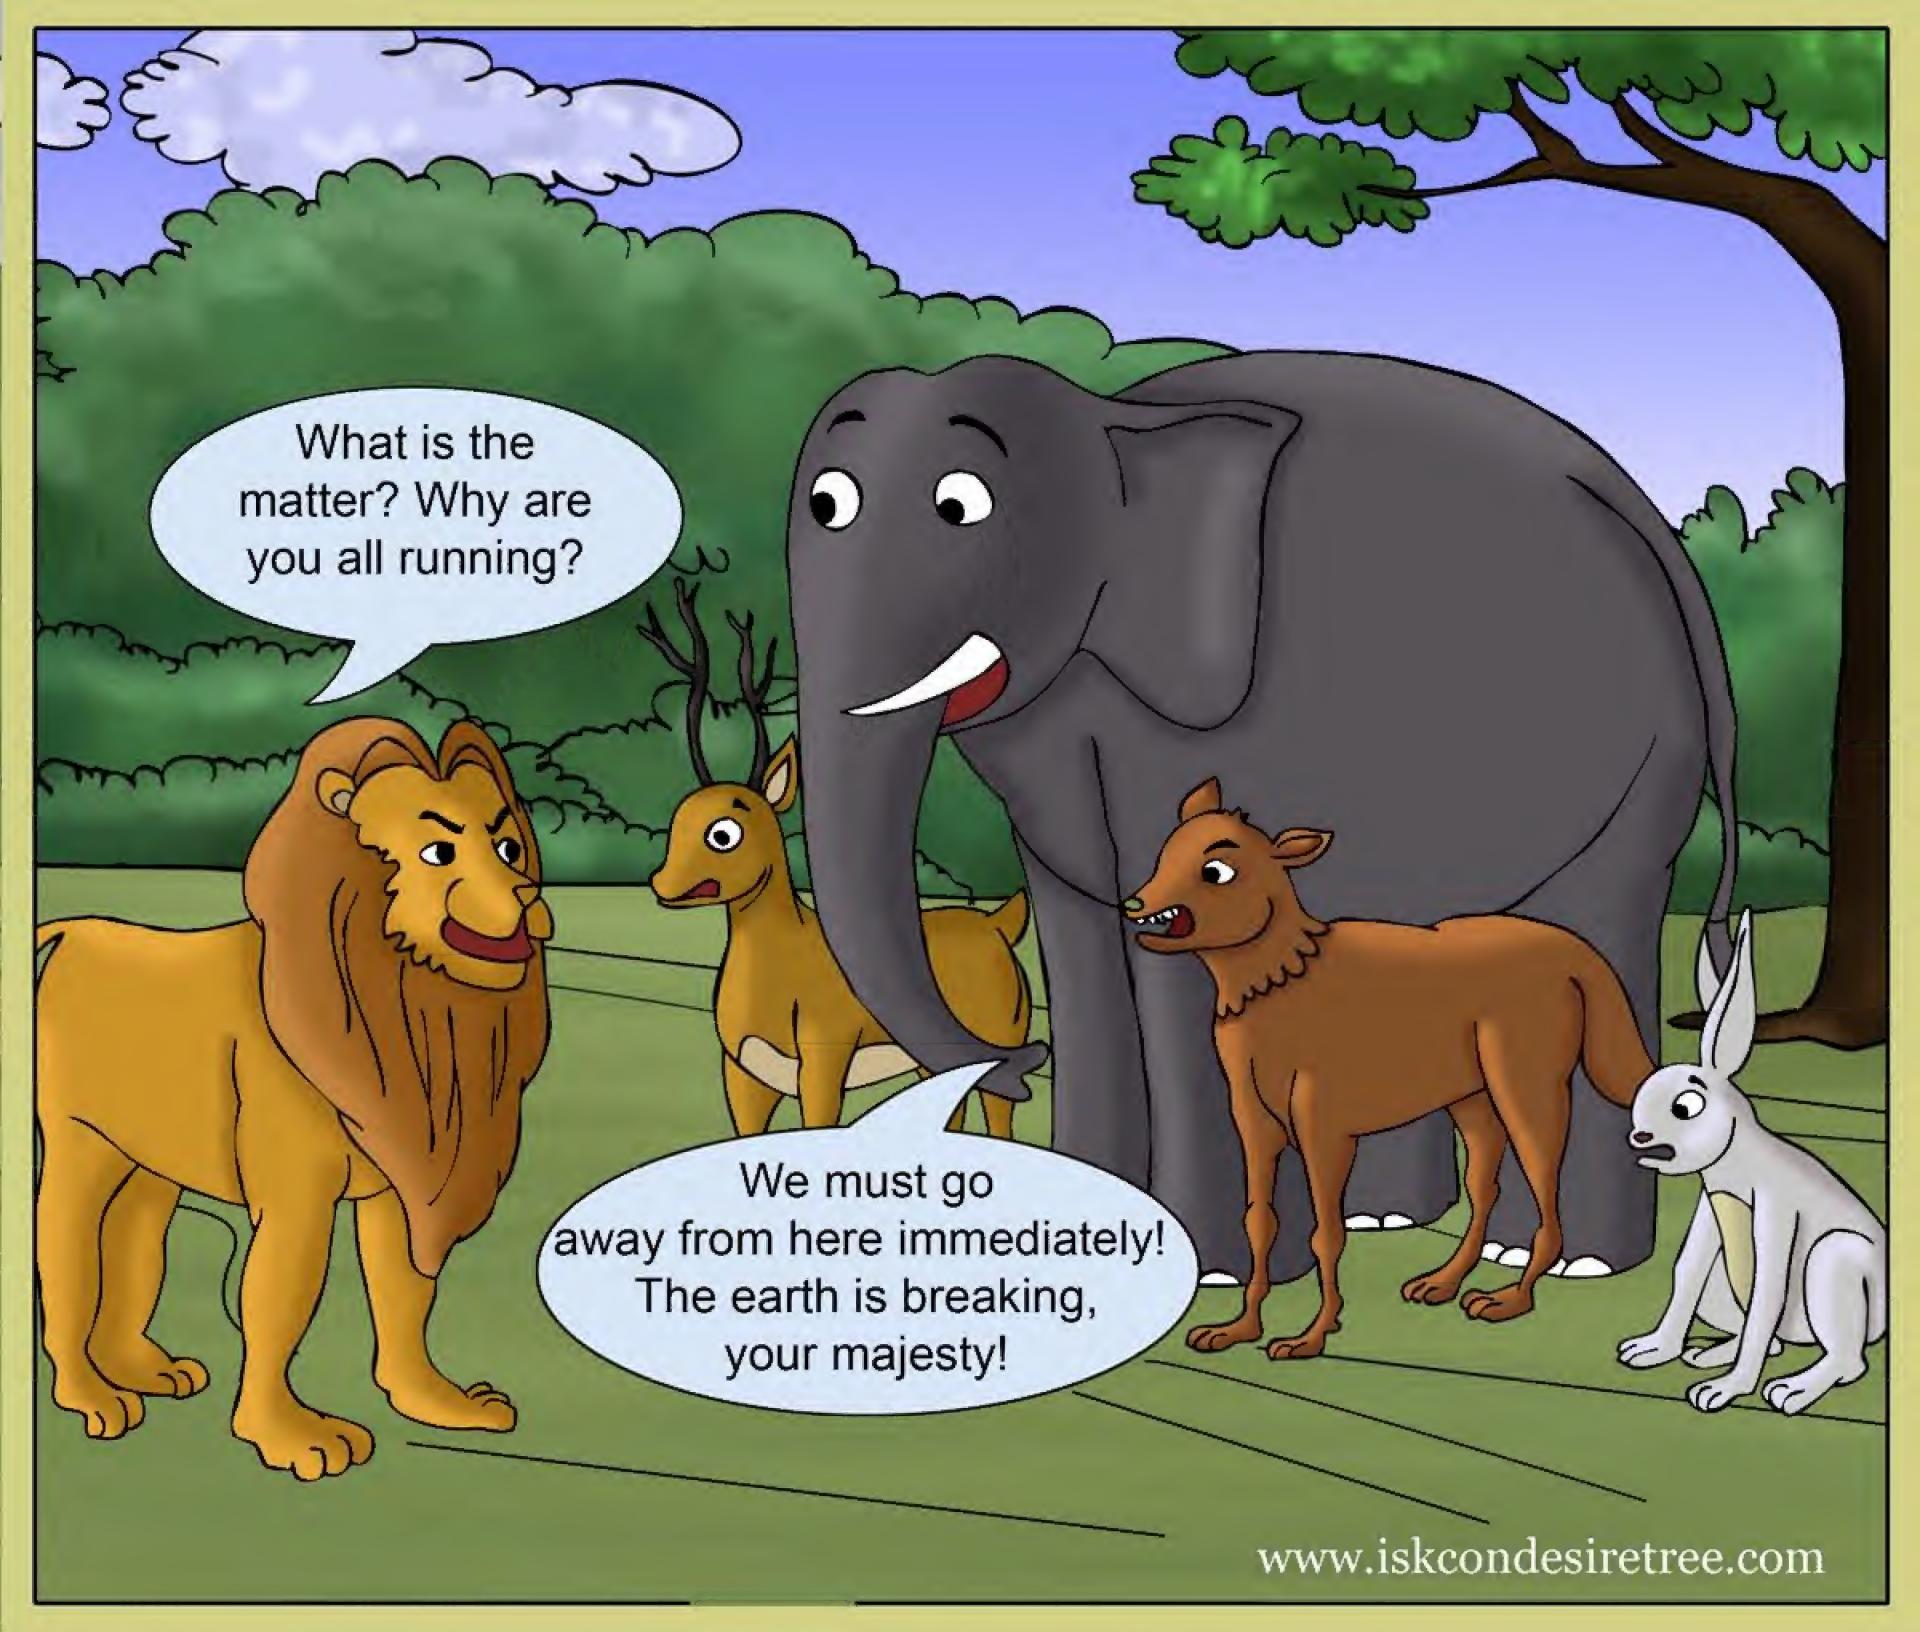

A cartoon illustration of a lion with a large, bushy orange mane. The lion has a slightly worried or confused expression, with furrowed brows and a slightly open mouth showing its teeth and tongue. A white speech bubble is positioned to the left of the lion's head, containing the following text.

Hmm! That is impossible! There must be something wrong.

He climbed to the top of the hill and roared...

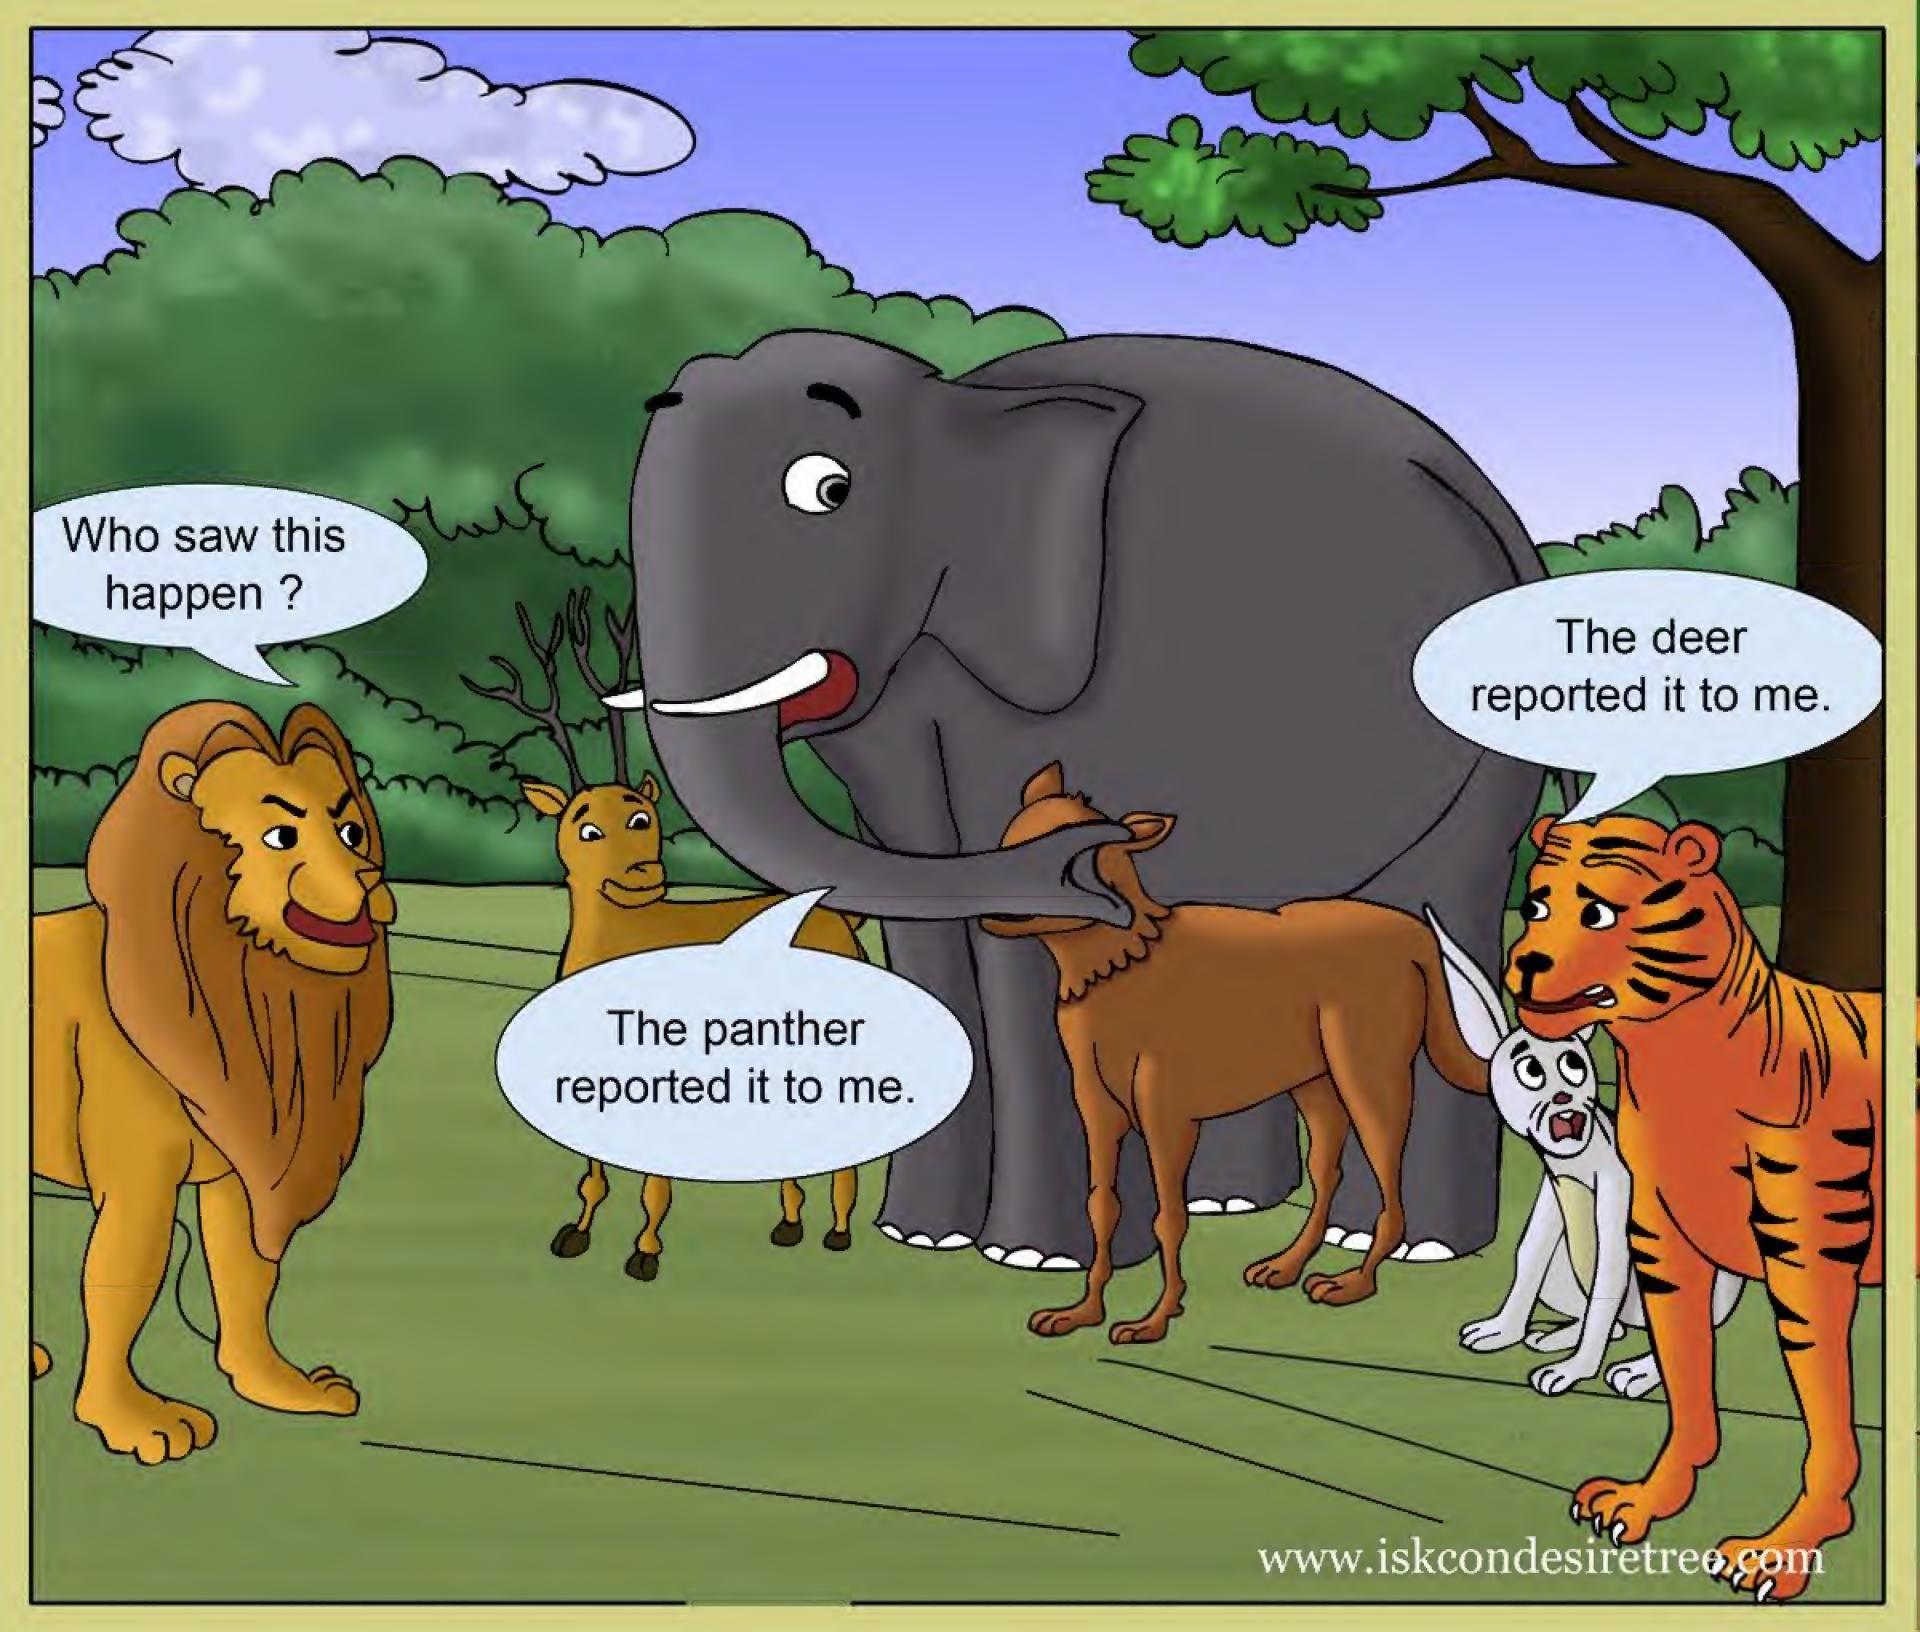

Stop all of you!

What is the matter? Why are you all running?

We must go away from here immediately!
The earth is breaking, your majesty!

Who saw this happen ?

The panther reported it to me.

The deer reported it to me.

Then it comes to the dear...

Your majesty,
the rabbit reported
it to me.

Finally the rabbit was brought to the lion...

Did you really see it?

Yes majesty saw it there with my own eyes.

Rabbit tells him the whole story...

A fruit falls and
the sound of dry leaves, hmm! I am sure he has made a mistake.

All you,
wait here, I'll go with the rabbit and find out what really happened.

Then the lion went with the rabbit.

After a long time they reached there, where the event was occoured.

Show me the place where you heard the noise.

That is the place where I heard the thundering noise!

Then the lion looked closely the dry leaves under the tree and found out exactly what had happened.

Returning to the waiting animals, the lion told them what he had discovered...

